Telemedicine is rapidly becoming both a vital and expected tool for patient care in Delaware, allowing physicians and their practices to help enhance patient care. The Medical Society of Delaware was instrumental in the passage of HB 69, otherwise known as the “telemedicine expansion bill.” HB 69 is one of the strongest patient safety and payment parity laws in the country, mandating full commercial insurance reimbursement for services rendered through telemedicine. After a significant review process, The Medical Society of Delaware is pleased to offer this important tool to its membership through its fully vetted partnership with MEND.
